Quality and reliable partners for decades of lasting success

Knott has been successfully producing all-natural, high-quality pet food appropriate to the needs of the species and focused on animal welfare since 1984. In concrete terms, this means that Knott processes all items in their portfolio, such as fresh and frozen products, all-natural and without the use of additives. This successful concept has helped the company grow to a production area of around 1,500 square metres today with state-of-the-art machinery, including Handtmann technology. A staff of 25 qualified employees produce a wide range of products under certified production conditions that also consider operational energy balance and protection of the environment. Particular importance is attached to cleanliness and hygiene through frequent cleaning and disinfection. With Handtmann production technology and service, the company sees the aspects of premium quality, sustainability, versatility, best hygienic conditions and first-class product quality met to its complete satisfaction.

“In Handtmann, we have found a reliable partner, who has never let us down.”

“High-quality and appropriate to the needs of the species” is the company’s philosophy

100 % free from colourants. 100 % free from flavour additives. 100 % free from attractants. Knott Tiernahrung is uncompromising when it comes to species-appropriate pet food. “It goes without saying that all the products we offer are free from chemical colourants, preservatives or attractants. Our dry chews are refined all-natural without additives,” confirms owner Christian Knott. This goes for all products in the diversified range.

In-house production of the entire product portfolio

The entire range of products offered by Knott Tiernahrung is produced in-house in its production facilities. The offering is comprehensive and versatile: “We produce frozen meat, dry chews, and much more,” explains entrepreneur and animal expert Knott. This variety requires flexible production technology, which Knott has found in Handtmann filling and portioning technology ever since the company was established. Processing many different feed materials, such as chicken, duck, rabbit, horse, turkey, venison, lamb, sheep, beef and pork is another challenge. These materials are gently processed using Handtmann vacuum fillers and auxiliary devices and thus satisfy the high quality standards of Knott.

Based on trust

The trust that countless pet owners place in Knott’s high-quality pet food is also based on decades of faithful cooperation between Handtmann and Knott, which is always focused on quality and reliability.

Knott Tiernahrung in the Handtmann webinar

Handtmann offers a series of webinars on the production of pet food. Participants get to learn all they need to know about the economically efficient and high-quality production of wet and dry food, treats and snacks. Knott Tiernahrung is also very convincing in the webinar.
